

Are you considering graduate school in economics, public policy, or another closely related field? Join us for an informal information session with Professors Olney and Gibson, November 9th at 6PM in Schapiro 309. We will talk about what graduate school is and isn't, and how to think about whether it's a good choice for you. In addition, we will highlight resources from which you can learn more about graduate training and the application process. Much of the time will be devoted to your questions, which may range from administrative details (Deadlines?) to the graduate student experience (Will I make friends?) and intellectual climate (Will advisors support my ideas?). All students are welcome, whether you're a senior major about to apply or a first-year student just a little curious about future options.