

David Bilik, Class of 1994

I am an equity analyst at a money management firm. The study of economics is helpful in both learning about how economies work (macroeconomics) and how companies/industries operate (microeconomics). Finance and accounting can be learned later. Independent thought and analysis are key, which can be learned at Williams in economics courses and throughout the various disciplines. Go EPHs.