

Ben Locke, Class of 2006

I currently run the Analytics and Measurement Team at TripAdvisor in Boston. We build the infrastructure, tools, and define the key metrics so that decision makers across the organization can make data driven decisions. I use the mathematics and decision making frameworks I learned in my economics classes to frame analytical problems, provide costs benefit analysis, and ensure the accuracy of our robust a/b testing tools.